Great Rush to Jacobs & Brother

NEAR the Post-Office, to see the stacks of Cloth, Cambrics, Vestings, &c., which they have just received from the City, as well as the first class lot of Riga-made Clothing now on hand—Over Coats, Dress, Frock and Suit Coats, Pants and Vests.

Don't forget that for anything in the men's line of wear, you can never go amiss by calling at JACOB'S. If you want a fine Coat, or Pants, or Vest, rely upon it you cannot be better accommodated anywhere, either as to quality, make, or price. So with middle, or low-priced Goods. They offer a varied stock, and defy competition. They will sell Ready-made Clothing, all of their own making up, at prices as low as City clothing, which are apt to rip and give way. They are PRAC-TICAL TABLORS themselves, and hence turn out nothing but what they know to be well put up. Give them a call—look to their Stock—and if you are not pleased there is no harm done. No trouble to show goods. The latest New York and Philadelphia Fashions received.

NOTICE.

LETTERS Testimentary on the estate of SAMUEL STUDABAKER, late of Tyrone township, Adams county, deceased, have been granted to the subscribers, residing in said Township. They, therefore, give notice to persons indebted to said Estate, to call with them and settle the same; and those who have claims, are desired to present the same, properly authenticated, for payment.

CLEMENCE STUDABAKER,

JACOB HARMAN,

Heber Kimball and the Mormons are expecting a good old time when the body falls into the hands of the children of Israel. He says in a speech reported in the Deseret News: Will we have manna?

The United States have seven hundred wagons loaded with about two tons to each wagon, with all kinds of things, and then seven thousand head of cattle, and there are said to be two thousand five hundred troops, with this and that and the other;

that is all right. Suppose this don't get here, but all the goods and cattle come;

well, that would be a mighty help to us;

that would clothe up the boys and girls and make them comfortable, and then remember there are fifteen months provisions beyond. I am only talking about this—

Suppose it extends on for four or five years and they send one hundred thousand troops and provisions and goods in proportion, and everything else got here, and they did not some people complain that they have no friends; but they might as well complain that they have no clothes; they have simply worn them out!

Dr. Johnson said, "a man should keep his friendship in repair," and he spoke like a philosopher, as he was. Que vouliez vous? would you eat your cake and yet keep it? would you spend your skillings and still hear them jingle in your pocket? would you use your friends up by incessant and unreasonable demands upon their good will, and still have as many as before? The idea is pro-postorous; and yet you complain of the fickleness of friends and the instability of human affection! Judge Olin of Vermont, was asked the secret of his political influence in that State, answered: "By rarely using it." And that's the way a sensible man keeps his friends; by seldom using them. He keeps them lovingly and carefully, as he would a precious old coin of gold, which he esteems not merely for its market value, but uses in the last emergency.—Boston Post.

Take all sorrow out of life, and you take away all richness and depth and tenderness. Sorrow is the furnace that melts selfish hearts together in love.

A Bit of Romance.

"No one knows what his neighbor does," is a proverb as true as it is old. Those who sleep over the original way and sorrows of distressed heroes and heroines in novels, little dream that such dreams of intense interest are being enacted every day in their own neighborhoods, and under their very eyes.

The following incident which we extract from the Bucyrus Journal, published at Bucyrus, Crawford county, Ohio, claimed to be strictly true, possesses sufficient romance to make a half a dozen novels:

In Butler county, Pennsylvania, some seven years ago, lived a wealthy farmer who was blessed with a family of six children, the oldest of which was a beautiful girl of seventeen summers. A young man in the neighborhood, who was of good family, feigned an interest in her. Young and inexperienced, she fell into the snare set for her. Shortly after her ram was accomplished, the young man, fearing the wrath of her father, when the consequences of his villainy should become apparent, absconded. The young girl now felt the full horror of her situation. She could not bear her situation but a short time, and her destroyer had fled. She could not live, so she endured the shame and reproach that would attach to her when all should be discovered. She determined upon leaving the country at once, and preferring to be considered a doña rather than disgraced, married a man to cheat her parents into the belief that she had been drowned. A creek ran through her father's farm and emptied into the Susquehanna, a short distance away. At this time of the year (spring) it was swollen by freshets, and it was dangerous to venture on the frail bridge of plank that had been thrown across it. One evening when the water was very high, she prepared to go to a neighbor's who lived across the creek. Her father objected to the ground of danger, but insisting that she could get over safely, she seized her bonnet and started. She had previously secured a few articles of clothing outside which she took with her. Arriving at the bridge, she threw her bonnet into the stream, well knowing that it would be caught on the bushes that overhung the stream, and hurrying on soon gained the road, and walked away in the direction of Harrisburg. The consternation of the family, after the lapse of two or three hours, may be imagined. One went to the house she had started for, but she had not been there. It was supposed immediately that she had fallen off the bridge. Search was made and her bonnet was found long I on some over-hanging willows. Sadly they returned to their bereaved home. Doubt was at an end. She had fallen from the frail bridge, had been drowned, and her body carried by the angry flood into the river. Shortly after her supposed death her father, upon whose mind the event weighed heavily, wishing to leave the scene of his affliction, sold his farm and removed to this country.

In the meantime she had reached Harrisburg, taken the cars west, and in a few days found herself at the only tavern in a secluded village in the interior of Michigan. The landlady was a kind-hearted woman, and at that particular time was in need of an assistant. She heard the story of the poor girl, sympathized with her, and liking her appearance, insisted on her making that her home. In this house she passed six years of contentment. Her hostess introduced her as a widow—she gained friends and received many advantageous offers of marriage.

One morning about six months ago she was in the sitting room when the stage drove up. The windows of the coach were down, and she could see most of the passengers. Among them was a face that seemed familiar to her. She looked again and with a shrik fell fainting on the floor. It was her suitor! The husband soon learned how matters stood, and I determined that justice should be done. She sought him, told him the facts, and insisted that he should repair the injury he had inflicted by making her his wife. To this he at once consented. Three months after his flight from Pennsylvania, sojourned with remorse, he had started back with the intention of marrying her. On the way he had picked up a newspaper, which contained an account of her tragic death. Feeling that he was the cause of her untimely end, heart-sick and soul-broken, he turned back, a changed and better man. He had settled down, accumulated property, and was a man of standing and influence. The joy of the girl when she met with her repentant lover may be imagined. They were married that evening, and the next morning started for Pennsylvania. Ascertaining the address of her father, they came on to this place as fast as steam could carry them. Wards cannot paint the raptures of the old man as he clasped to his bosom a daughter he had mourned as dead for six years. Explanations were made, all was forgiven, and after passing a few weeks of unalloyed happiness here, they returned to their home in the west.

A Diabolical Young Scoundrel.—A singular affair is related in a Silesian journal. Five little children belonging to two tradesmen in Bolkenhayn, in that country, went a few days ago to play in a garden and were joined by a boy of eleven, who has always been noted for perversity of disposition. After awhile, their parents sought for them, but to their astonishment found that they had disappeared. After looking a long while they found them lying piled one on another in a large wooden easel in a shed in the garden. Four were dead, and the fifth, though still breathing, was in so desperate a state that he died shortly after. This lad referred to was then questioned, and he calmly related the astonishing fact that he had persuaded the children to enter in play—had then slammed down the lid and sealed himself on it, remaining there for three-quarters of an hour listening to their cries and groans. He then raised the lid to see if they were dead, and finding that they were not so had fastened it by means of a hasp, after which he had gone away to fly his kite! The little scoundrel has been arrested.

John B. Holmes, formerly of Albany, N. Y., and who was sent to the Penitentiary, last week, for fifteen years, is said to be worth $15,000, over and above his debts—all of which he has accumulated by various acts of peculation.

Terrible Scene in a Theatre.

A writer from Europe gives the following description of the scene at Leighorn, where, in an agony of anguish and alarm, one hundred men at a blow were trampled to death, and five hundred wounded:

The house was crowded. The play "The Sorcerer" was in progress. The first acts went off well; battery after battery exploded, and the thrilling spectacle made the theatre ring with applause. All eyes were turned to see them take the Malibron. At last it was stormed. The soldiers rushed in, then the scene, amid the wildest cheer. At that moment a spark caught the scenes, they blazed, the audience thought it a part of the play and cheered the louder, the scene was in flames. This was too perfect. A sudden shout to see their master, and a wild cry of misery drowned the applause. Higher and higher it rose, masking the spectators with fright. Five minutes were past, the fire was extinguished, but the gas burst, like a flock of sheep before wolves, the masses from a sinking ship, losing all control, but of self-preservation, rushed from their seats. The shrieks of women, the shrieks of children, the hoarse voices of men, all struggling for life, presented a scene not describable. Some threw themselves from the boxes into the pit, killing themselves and crushing those beneath them. No judgment, no forethought, out of the windows, over the lodges, stamping each other to death. The sentinel was ordered to stop the passage with bayonets. They started, and those in the front ranks ran through, and the soldiers with the rest, were annihilated with the rest of hundreds."

A Mormon Place of Refuge.

It is stated that the Mormons, among their other preparations, have not forgotten to look on a Canaan of refuge, in case the United States should disagree too severely with their patriarchal institutions. The Times have, it appears, an excellent open road from their southwestern valleys to a settlement of their own on the confines of Lower California. This colony consists of between one and two thousand picked settlers—men, prudent, and industrious, and well instructed not to give offence to their Christian neighbors. The Colony keeps up a steady communication with Salt Lake, six hundred miles distant; and it is scarcely to be doubted that they have planted other stations in the pleasant and fertile valleys scattered along this route. The inference is obvious, from the systematic arrangement, which opens the way into Sonora and Lower California, that the Mormons have contemplated the possibility of a retreat beyond the United States jurisdiction. They affiliate with the Indians, are strong enough to hold both Sonora and Lower California against Mexico, and poth but a large volunteer force and the establishment of a cordon of military settlements can reduce the Mormons to subjection.

A Cottage Rental.—A Dickinson College correspondent of the New York Advertiser writes:

A glorious revival of religion in the college has been in progress for the past two weeks, and so deeply interesting has been the work, that prayer meetings have been held every night. Mourning have presented themselves at the altar, and the grief of distress has mingled with shouts of deliverance, to the great joy of the people of God. Already more than twenty have been converted, and give evidence of a true change of heart. Last Sunday morning, in general class meeting, many of them related their experience, and declared what God had done for them. It was a noble and heart-cheering sight to see these young men thus publicly take their stand for God. But in the afternoon a scene of still greater interest was presented, when just previous to the sacrament, twenty of them presented themselves around the altar, and gave public proofs of their faith by seeking admission to the Church.

A Grandmother at Twenty-nine Years of Age.—A woman who was recently brought before the magistrate of Wigton, for an assault committed upon a neighbor, affords a striking instance of recklessness early marriage. She is the wife of Patrick Casey, a tailor. They reside in Douglas Terrace, Wigton. He is forty years of age, and she is twenty-nine. They were married before she had attained the age of fourteen years and seven months. Since that time she has had eleven other children. Strange to say, the eldest girl, who was fifteen years old a few days since, is the mother of two children, the elder of whom is nearly two years of age, having married earlier in life than her mother. Mrs. Casey is, therefore, at the age of twenty-nine years, the mother of twelve, and the grandmother of two children.—Liverpool Paper.

Medicinal Uses of Ice.—The medicinal uses of ice has now become very extensive. Medical men advise, as a chief part of the treatment for inflammation of the stomach, the easing at frequent intervals, of small pieces of ice, and for inflammation of the brain, its constant application to the head.

A draught of any ice-cold fluid, when taken in a state of health, produces relief by lessening the amount of animal heat which the human body is constantly generating. First, by absorbing a portion of it; and second, by allowing it to pass off with the excreted fluids. Its relief in fever arises from precisely the same causes. Inflammation, either external or internal, it aids by reducing the size of the vessels carrying blood to the inflamed part, and if sufficiently long continued, arrests it altogether.

Musk.—This well known scent is imported from China, Bengal and Russia. It has a bitterish and somewhat acid taste, and in color resembles dried blood. This scent is obtained from the musk deer, and possesses a most penetrating and diffusive odor, rather agreeable when feeble, but when concentrated it is decidedly offensive; so diffusive is its power that a few grains will scent a room for years, and it never seems to fade in strength. Tonquin musk is the most esteemed. Pod musk is the natural bug containing the musk, and each one weighs about six drachms, having in each about eight scruples of pure musk. It is generally more or less adulterated, but the adulterations are easily detected under the microscope or by analysis.

THE ADAMS SENTINEL

GETTYSBURG:

MONDAY, DEC. 14, 1857.

We are requested to announce that a meeting of the "Young Men's Association" will be held in the Lecture-room of the German Reformed Church, on Saturday evening next, at 6 o'clock.

Compiler.

The first lecture before the "Young Men's Christian Association" was delivered in Christ Church, on Monday evening last, by the Rev. Dr. KRAUTH. It was a beautiful production, bearing the impress of the sound principles and finished scholarship of that respected divine. We wish the audience had been larger. We have not a doubt, however, as the Lecture progresses, the interest will be increased. To night, we learn, Rev. Mr. WANNER will lecture in St. James Church; and the Rev. Dr. BACON on next Monday evening.

The railroad is very nearly completed to New Oxford, and but a few days now will pass, before the "iron horse" will stir up the population of that old town. There is to be a grand "opening jubilee" about the Holidays. Early in the Spring the chide will rouse our folks in Gettysburg from their slumbers, if we are to judge from the perverting effort of those in direction of the Read.

The rails are now being laid on the Little-town Railroad, and should the weather during the winter be favorable, they hope to travel upon it in the Spring.

Mr. JOHN BROWN has disposed of his house and lot on Chambersburg street, to the Messrs. Neinhardt, for $1,325.

A new Methodist Episcopal Church is in contemplation in Hunterstown; and funds nearly sufficient for its erection, we understand, have been already subscribed.

A paragraph is published in several papers, mentioning that the Rev. Mr. MULLEN, one of the murdered Missionaries in India, and his wife, were natives of Gettysburg. This is a mistake. The Rev. Mr. MULLEN, formerly of this place, has not been in India for several years.

A Cottage Rental.—A Dickinson College correspondent of the New York Advertiser writes:

A glorious revival of religion in the college has been in progress for the past two weeks, and so deeply interesting has been the work, that prayer meetings have been held every night. Mourning have presented themselves at the altar, and the grief of distress has mingled with shouts of deliverance, to the great joy of the people of God. The Directors of the Poor.—The Directors of the Poor, on Monday last, engaged the winter's pork for the institution at $6 25 per 100 for hogs weighing over 150 lbs., and $5 75 for lighter ones.

The Rev. J. F. Schantz, a graduate of our Seminary, has been elected Pastor of Lutheran Trinity Church, at Reading, Pa. He is to preach alternately in the English and German Languages.

The Hon. R. M. T. Hunter was re-elected U. S. Senator, by the Legislature of Virginia, on Thursday last, by a nearly unanimous vote.

There were tremendous rains and frosts in Alabama for several days last week. The country was flooded, and serious damage has been done in all directions. The loss is said to be immense.

The "New Richmond Mill" and Distillery of Michael Keefer, Esq., on Bollinger's Creek, two miles south of Frederick, were destroyed by fire in the night of the 5th inst. The fire originated, it is supposed, from the friction of the machinery in the third story of the mill. The total loss is estimated at $35,000, on which there was an insurance of $15,000. There were 25,000 bushels of grain in the mill, of which but little was saved. The pens contained about 1,200 hogs, all of which were saved.

We had no idea that there were so many Welsh congregated in one place in our section of country, as we ascertain from the last York Republican. It mentions that a new Welsh Presbyterian Church was dedicated in the village of State Hill, Peach-bottom township, York county, on the 5th inst., making three Welsh churches in that village.

Dangerous Counterfeiting.—A new counterfeit $5 on the Bank of the Old Dominion, of Alexandria, is in circulation. It is well engraved; but the signature of the State treasurer is bad, and in the word "treasurer" an occurs where the u ought to be.

The Hon. David Wilmot has been re-appointed Judge of the Thirteenth Judicial District. He had resigned it when he was nominated for Governor. He will now hold it under the Governor's appointment, till next fall, when an election will take place. The Republican majority being very great in the counties of the District (Bradford, Susquehanna and Sullivan,) Mr. Wilmot can be elected then, if he should desire it.

Mr. Isaac Craig, who was shot at Chambersburg by the Brothers Mc Kibben, sometime ago, and who has been laying at Skippensburg under medical attendance, has recovered sufficiently to return to his home at Pittsburg.

Gen. William F. Packer, Governor elect of Pennsylvania, while out hunting about thirty miles north of Williamsport last week, ruptured a blood vessel, or strained himself in some way which caused a hemorrhage of the lungs, and for a few days his danger was considered imminent. He has, however, it is stated, so far recovered as to be out again.

Another Death from Burning.

Thomas Brown, an aged colored man, was brought to the Almshouse, on Saturday, the 3d inst., from Menallen township, very badly burned on the right side of his body, and from the effect of which he died on Sunday morning. We learn that he occupied a cabin in that township, and received the injury by reason of his clothing taking fire whilst he was in his bed, which stood near the fire-place. He represented himself as having been eleven years of age at the time the battle of Bunker's Hill was fought, and recollects having heard it spoken of immediately after its occurrence.

Compiler.

Suicide.

We learn, that a Mr. George K. Duns, son of Mr. Daniel Duns, residing near St. Paul's Church, 5 miles east of Hanover, was found suspended by the neck, in his barn, near the dwelling, on Sunday afternoon last. The deceased was addicted to intemperance to a very great extent, and during the whole period previous to his committing the act of self-destruction, was known to be in a beastly state of intoxication. It is said, however, by the family, that on the Saturday night previous he appeared perfectly sober, and, as usual, arose quite early on the following morning and went to the barn, as the family supposed, to feed the cattle. He had been absent some hours before the family thought of making search for him, and when found, had no doubt been hanging from early in the morning. He leaves a widow and six children.

Spectator.

Mr. Richard Parish, a resident of Uniontown District, Carroll county, was killed on Wednesday of last week in a mysterious manner. He was driving a five-horse team from Baltimore, and was found dead about 1½ miles from Uniontown. The team was stopped some two miles from where the unfortunate accident occurred, and, discovering that there was no driver with it, search was made and Mr. P. found as recorded above. Henry H. Harbaugh, Esq., of Uniontown, held an inquest over the body, who concluded that the deceased came to his death from some cause unknown to the jury. He was about 35 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

More Specie Going.

The steamer Africa sailed from New York on Wednesday for Liverpool, with nearly $1,700,000 in specie!

The steamer Kangaroo sailed from New York for Liverpool on Thursday, with $250,000 in specie.

The College buildings at Bothany, Va., together with all the valuable contents, were destroyed by fire early on Thursday morning last. It is supposed the property was set on fire.

The Directors of the Poor, on Monday last, engaged the winter's pork for the institution at $6 25 per 100 for hogs weighing over 150 lbs., and $5 75 for lighter ones.

CONGRESS.

WATKINS, Dec 7 1857.—The heat weather and the long session of the first session of the thirty fifth Congress attracted a large throng of persons from various sections of the confederacy to the national Capital to day. The galleries of the Houses were crowded to the brim and a scene of devout emotion and warm greetings was presented on every hand.

SEVENTH.

The attendance of Senator was unusually large, there being but one absent, including Mr. Hammond, of South Carolina, who has been elected to succeed Mr. Butler, deceased, and Mr. Pennington, who has been elected by the Legislature of Tex. as to succeed Mr. Bullock, deceased. Mr. Adams of Mississippi, the fourth Senator of the last Congress, who died during the session, had completed his term of service.

The Senate was called to order by the Secretary at 12 noon, who read a letter from the Vice President, stating that he would not be able to reach Washington by the commencement of the session.

On motion of Mr. Benjamin, a resolution was adopted that the oath prescribed by the Constitution be administered to new Senators by Mr. Bell, the oldest member present. Messrs. Andrus & Johnson, of Tennessee, and Daniel Clark, of New Hampshire, two members who then entered took the oath. Mr. Clark succeeded Mr. Bell at once.

The Senate then elected an organization by electing a President pro tempore. Mr. Benjamin F. Tappan, of Alabama, was chosen. He received twenty-eight votes.

By the opposite, nineteen votes given to Mr. Hamlin and one to Mr. Seward.

The usual resolution was passed to adjourn the House and the President of the United States of the organization of the Senate.

A message was received from the President of the Unit. St. in which it was stated that the nomination of Mr. George W. Bowman, of Bedford, Pa., as superintendent of public printing, which was confirmed. The Senate soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

This body was called to order at 12 o'clock by Mr. Gullion, the clerk of the last House.

Two hundred and twenty-one members answered to their names, and the fact that a quorum was present being a certain, the House proceeded to the consideration of other business.

Mr. James L. Orr, of South Carolina, was nominated by Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, and Mr. Z. J. LaMere, of Pennsylvania, by Mr. Banks, Mr. Henry Winter Davis, was nominated by Mr. E. J. Morris, but withdrew his name before the ballot was taken. The result of the vote was—Orr 129, Gullion 21, Felix R. Zollicoffer 8, Lewis D. Councill 3, Valentine B. Morton 1, H. Winter Davis 2, Francis P. Blair, Jr. 1, Wm. B. Ricard 2, Humphrey Marshall 1.

Mr. Orr having received a majority of all the votes cast was declared the Speaker elect. The result was received with applause.

The elect appointed Messrs. Banks and Stevens to conduct Mr. Orr to the chair, while the oath of office was administered by Mr. Giddings of Ohio, the oldest member present. On assuming the chair Mr. Orr spoke in the following speech:

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives. I thank you for the honor you have conferred on me by selecting me to preside over your deliberations. The delicate and responsible duties of the chair will be comparatively light if I shall be fortunate as to secure, as doubtless I will, your co-operation in maintaining the dignity and decorum of this body. The rules you may adopt to regulate your proceedings, I shall seek most earnestly to administer firmly, faithfully and impartially.

The great interest confined to our charge by the people of this country almost induces us to cultivate a patriotism as expansive as the republic itself. I cherish the ardent hope that our patriotic efforts may be directed to such measures as to uphold the Constitution, preserve the union of these States, quicken their prosperity and build up the greatness and glory of our common country.

The members and delegates then came forward and were sworn in by the speaker.

Mr. Allen, of Illinois, and Mr. Glazebrook, of Pennsylvania, were elected—the former clerk and the latter sergeant-at-arms.

The House voted a vote of thanks to Mr. Hale, of Illinois, 128, B. Gandy Brown, of Missouri 55, Mr. Smith 2, William Culver, of Kentucky 4.

Mr. Buckley, of Virginia, was elected door keeper, and Mr. Cluskey was by resolution elected postmaster.

Mr. Florence gave notice of his intention to introduce a bill for the suppression of all bank notes of less denomination than $100 as a circulating medium in the District of Columbia.

The House then adjourned till to-morrow 12 o'clock noon.

December 8th.

SENATE.—After the reception and reading the President's Message, Mr. Douglass moved the printing of the usual number of copies, and expressed his hearty concurrence with the President in all except the views expressed relative to Kansas and stated that he would shortly give his views and the reasons why he believed that the people of Kansas had not been permitted to regulate their own institutions.

Mr. Bigler replied contending that the people of Kansas had an opportunity to organize a Constitution if they chose. He compelled the freedom of election of Davis when Louis Napoleon was elected—a

Mr. Jones of Tennessee, presented petitions against the employment of chinamen in the mines of the country of St. James and therefore away from the scene of discussion.

He then proceeded to show that Congress could not properly receive Kansas into the Union under the Leecompton Constitution. Not only the slavery question but all others must be submitted to the people of Kansas as they are guaranteed the right to abolish all their domestic institutions for themselves. On this principle the whole nation must be submitted to ascertain whether it meets their approval.
